“ Dani I always loved when you would just be silly and laugh and make those munchy faces. You are so loved and missed. Sometimes I wonder what it would be like if you were still here. I miss you a lot. I know that Gods will is good and I'm happy that you are in heaven, the most beautiful place anyone could be. God bless you always. I love you Dan.

“ Dear Elby and Family, I know how hard it is to loose someone that was so close. Your family are in my prayers every night. Elby and family you must be strong to help each family member get through this hard time. Elby and dont tell me that your not strong cause you are. this is a poem for the family. Guardian Angel
We each have a guardian angel, standing by us each new day, there to lighten up our lives, sweetly showing us the way... A lovely glow besides us, keeping us safe and sound, and when our savior calls us,We'll both be heavenly bound.... Believing that our angel,Is with us constantly, A lovely thought to hold onto,Always near for you and me... Our lord has his purpose,sending down his angels above, For we are his creations,And He protects us with his love... From the day we are born, Untill the Lord calls us HOME, Our guardian angel is besides us so we will NEVER BE ALONE....Deepest sympathy love stacie “ I’ll take it as Fate who pushed Danielle’s and my hands together on a weekend night four years ago. She was holding a cigarette and nonchalant, brushing the lit end against my skin. The incident warranted nothing more than a quick glance over our shoulders, as our bodies moved in different directions. Her soft, sultry voice offering a quick apology as she disappeared through the door. She looked young; she was just a freshman, with her long, dark hair.

Nearly a year passed before we met again at the art house, where Danielle was standing in the kitchen, almost unnoticeable, until she started yelling at me; poking at my insecurities. She shocked me, this unknown girl. She startled me and I left, but felt energized, lit afire in a way I never had before. So, I marched right back in to meet her face to face and stood my ground arguing, and enjoying the heated exchange and the way she teased me out of my overly-shy shell. Danielle sent me home livid, and enlivened with the opportunity of knowing this curious girl.

Danielle had a way of seeing you as you saw yourself. Maybe that’s why it took so long for us to click. She worked on me. Our friendship was tumultuous over the next year and a half. No matter how much we talked or didn’t, she was always a friend. Like the time she left a trail of coke bottles from my room to the front door, anonymously, to lead me, if just for one moment, to the rest of the campus, our little society, and to the outdoors and the lovely afternoon and fresh air. She knew my fears and forced me to face them.

When Danielle walked, she let her feet just fall to the ground and her hips swivel back and forth. I loved her eyes and her little hands. She surprised and excited me when she sent me an email appealing to my sentiments. It would have taken much less. When our friendship blossomed into a relationship, Danielle not only invited me into her life, but allowed me to share with her my own. She kept me up late nights testing my intellect, letting me see the depths of her own. She listened to secrets no one else has heard, and brought them up years later just to make sure I was okay. Then there were the times when we’d lay on the couch together,

Although we grew apart over the last couple of years, the mere possibility of Danielle could brighten my spirits. Especially recently, Danielle occupied my thoughts often. She'd come to me whenever I was down or lonely. She'd be fine and happy and we'd be visiting and she'd be laughing.

Although we all miss you tremendously, I will remember you just like that; happy and always there, carrying joy.

I love you Danielle.

Sincerely,

“ Danielle,

In this extraordinarily poignant time, I close my eyes and thoughts of your radiating smile fill me with warmth and happiness. The force behind your beautiful writings led me to further question socially accepted paradigms, to think critically, and to take a stance in the face of compacency. I will always remember the time you played your new harmonica in the Greencastle Pizza Hut ; the dissonant sounds rang true and have been burned onto the soundtrack of our lives. I love you, Danielle.

“ Dani,

At the tender age of 10 years old you displayed the meaning of caring and sharing with others. You gave me your room during my visit and lightened the sorrow in my heart by being your effervescent self and joking with me. I was reminded of that time on Easter when you "got me last". “ *When I think of my cousin Danny I always remember her the day of Nani's wedding, in her simple white dress she looked so precious just like an Angle. That was such a happy day. Now in these days of sadness I still smile cause I know that I have a Angle looking over me and my son and that Angle is my cousin. May Gog bless her in so many ways. “ Danielle,
You were always a special angel struggling so hard to find peace and get well. Even in the mist of your own struggles you still had a sweet smile for the lady who swept your room. I will miss that smile and your beautiful eyes. I know you'll find peace of mind, body and spirit in the hands of the Lord. I will pray for your mother and the rest

“ *Our language limits us from truly expressing how a loss like this feels. Our lives are beautiful and fragile. We are intricately joined to each other yet our paths seem different. Danielle gave me a gift I could not gain anywhere else in the world. The trust and respect we shared assured me that I was truly blessed to have the opportunity to meet and get to know Danielle and her family in a special way. The love and support of Danielle's family made my job easier because I knew when we were not working together the family would protect her and help her make sense of her experience. She was such a vibrant and ambitious personality with many goals and desires. First and foremost She just wanted to be well. It's very difficult to make any sense of this painful experience, but, I do feel incredibly grateful and blessed to have had the opportunity to get to know and worked with Danielle and her family and I am a better man because of the knowledge and lessons Danielle has afforded me. I am eternally grateful and deeply saddened. Thank You so much Danielle for all the gifts and good-bye for now.

“ I am absolutely shocked upon learning of Danielle's passing.
Dannias I knew her thanks to Ericawas one of those smart, strong and compassionate people that anyone who had the sense to get to know her, could not help admiring. It would be easy to be confused and saddened at this time, thinking about what life she could have lived here, how she had sooo much to reach for;yet we can't see it like that. right now, at this time, Danielle has been CHOSEN to leave this world of struggle and sacrifice for an life of eternal peace and joy in the company of Jesus Christ and the Almighty Father.
She was chosen to leave this place for reasons only he knows, reasons of blessing for her, nbot suffering for us. Let's not forget that. Let's not forget that no tommorow, no breath is not guarenteed unless God says it so. Let's not forget no matter how strong we are, or how much we live for ourselves, we could never be prepared for when God calls us..unless we live step by step in him. God Bless you all and I, along with my family wish to extend sincere condolances, yet also move you to raise your hearts, and pains to the Lord, because as much as we don't understand, he knows why he has asked for Danielle, and it is so she can live in his glory forever. God Bless you all.

“ I met Danielle only once -- in July 2001 for no more than two or three hours; and yet, having communicated by mail, posted and digital, and twice by phone, a friendship developed and that friend is now gone. I had always held out the hope that I would have a chance to see her again and now that will never be. I know that she struggled against a terrible illness but I always admired her passion for life. And she had a real talent for writing and I am grateful for the opportunity to read her work. I feel fortunate that she kept in touch with me over these last several months and grateful that, however fleetingly, she made me a part of a life that has now been taken away from us. My heartfelt sympathies to her family and her friends whom I never knew but who today, on hearing of her loss, I feel a part of.

“ When Danielle came through Rush at DePauw, there were 90 women all hoping that Danielle would join Kappa and bless us with her beautiful smile and passion for women's rights. While her spirit was too free to be confined to sorority life, we were all blessed for having known her. One of the clearest memories I have of Danielle is at her 19th birthday party: young, beautiful, smiling and swaying to the music. She will be deeply missed and fondly remembered by all of the women at Kappa Kappa Gamma, especially myself.

Just know that she's with the LORD, in a better place rejoicing and in no more pain, no more suffering. I know that you are also comforted in knowing that she still lives in others, and in your hearts. As knowing Dani, she has been such a beautiful, loving, sweet and a caring child. She was always so pleasant to talk to. I will miss her Terribly.. Dani, I will never forget you.. I love you sweet child. You are in my prayers. God Bless.

“ Danny,
What can we say in times like this except God knows best. He knew your pain, your agony, and the fact that life was not fear to you during your trials. So God looked down on his child, and said its time to come home. Some would say why at such a young age? Well, why not. Your journey is over, and to us its very short, but God's time is never short. Danny I always told you I wanted that invitation to your graduation, I guess I'll get it when we meet in heaven: But my dear sweet friend, go and rest now. We will take solace in the fact that you are no longer in pain, and the only voices you are hearing is the voice of God and all his lovely angels that you which you are now a part of. To Minerva, they are our children but God has only barrowed them to us for a period of time. When he wants them back, we have to accept it and go on. *She had the ability to look right through me.
Her eyes
were the windows
to understanding how difficult it is to be young, attractive and intelligent.
She was one of Love's children,
an example
of what it is to go through life and still enjoy the simple beauty of a flower
in an unexpected location.
She told the truth
and the rest was just none of your business.
She moved you without trying to appear deep

She was wonderful.
She just wanted to find warmth in a cold world.
