Born in Waterbury, son of the late Donald and Vivian (Dorr) Felth, he was a longtime East Berlin and New Britain resident. A graduate of Wolcott High school, Class of 1969, he received a Bachelors Degree in Accounting from Central Connecticut State University (CCSU) and a Masters in Accounting from the University of New Haven. David was employed at local insurance companies and then for the State of Connecticut Department of Children & Families. Besides his parents, David was predeceased by a brother, Thomas Felth.

A devoted and hardworking father, David valued the pursuit of education and was admired by those who knew him for his industrious nature. He encouraged his three children to pursue knowledge and adventure through activities such as berry-picking, camping, gardening, history, scouting, and yearly trips to the U.S. Open tennis tournament. He maintained a lifelong love of fatherhood, Irish literature and culture, and yoga and was dearly loved by family, friends, and those who met him. David will be greatly missed, especially among those who experienced his unique ability to inspire joy and goodness.

“ Colin, Molly and Mac - I did not find out about your father's passing until after your celebration of his life had passed. I can not tell you how much I regret that. Your father was a dear friend of mine since childhood but some how I never met any of you despite hearing so much about each of you. It is a shame an obit wasn't placed in the Waterbury paper as I am sure many friends would have liked to have celebrated his life with you. If you could send me a mass card it would be most appreciated. My deepest condolences to each of you upon not only losing your Dad but losing him in such a sudden and unexpected manner.

Also my condolences and warm regards to your Aunt Betty

“ I went to college at CCSU with Dave. We all spent many hours hanging out at the student center with a small group of zanys. I'd bump into him now and then.
Very sorry for your loss. Travel prevents me from joining you at the memorial, but my sincere condolences to you all.

“ Colin, Molly, and Mack - when I think about your father, I feel the same warmth and comfort that I felt whenever I came to your house...it may have taken me some time before consistently remembering to use the back door but David was always welcoming, smiling, and inviting to greet my interruption in the front. David was such a man at ease, that not a single moment of frustration crossed his face as he drove us both to freedom after accidentally leading him the wrong way through Bristols "one-way road/no outlet" maze-zone. His calm and level nature are something that will always stick with me - last year there was a time where I felt so much panic and fear about something that happened and David just sat with me, told me stories, and had the ability to instill a tranquility in me that truly helped me through that very difficult time. He was a really good person, who helped produce an equally amazing family. I'm sorry for this huge loss you have suffered...I love you guys with all my heart.

“ My sympathies to Colin, Molly, and Mac. I used to work with your father at Intuit and then he convinced me to come work for the State. We would meet at lunch periodically and catch up on our children. He loved you three very much and was incredibly proud of you. I am so sorry for your loss.

“ To all who knew David had to know of his sense of humor and fun witty banter. I absolutely loved hanging and chatting with him. He was a very in-depth person and thinker. I know I had only scratched the surface in all there was to David and my heart aches to know I will learn no more.

My heart is broken for his children. He adored being a father. It was so very apparent what his kids meant to him. I pray they find the strength in moving forward and knowing their father would want them to and hold his memory so dear.

Rest in Peace, David. Until we meet again ❤️
