“ Tracy, I am so heartbroken for you. Your father always treated me with kindness and respect. He was a good man. A funny man. He brought his girls up to be independent, strong women. Although his physical presence is no longer here, he will forever be a part of you. Our thoughts and prayers are with you, your mom and your sisters. Xoxo

“Dave, I love you and miss you! As a boy and a man I always looked up to you! You were so strong and had so much talent as a baseball player. Now you are in heaven with mom, dad and Sandra and are free again from the burdens of health that you have experienced over the last several years. Save a place for me and don't forget to beat Elmer and Dad at setback. All my love! Barry

“Debbie, although I don't know you well or Susan and Jen at all, I feel the need to tell you that I have you in my prayers and thoughts. Losing a parent must be second only to losing a child. I can only say that I hope you are all strong for each other and that I am very sorry to hear of your loss. God Bless

“ I posted my comments in the local paper section before I was aware of this page. I trust that Norma is receiving all the steady support her daughters can muster, and all will be well with the family as life moves forward.

“ Dad,

I don't understand why this happened to you. It isn't fair. I can recall so many fun times we had together over the years and I will cherish those memories forever. I would pay any dollar amount to be able to go back in time. I hope you found Star up there and you are giving her a never-ending supply of heavenly Milkbones. I will miss you very much Daddy. I will try my best to make you proud. You were the best Dad out there and I love you very much.

“ Oh Daddy. This is surreal. I don't think this has sunk in yet. Just 2 weeks ago, we were watching 'Grumpy Old Men' and eating chocolate together. Every time I'd walk into your room, your eyes lit up. I'm sorry I didn't get to say an official 'goodbye' to you. But you know, and I know you are no longer suffering. I love you with all of my heart & soul....Love your daughter, Susan
