“ Dave will forever be linked with my memories of my first computer. Because it was not an Apple or an IBM, there was little help for the novice. Dave saved the day because he knew my operating system. When the machine wouldn't respond, I'd call Dave. In a reassuring tone, Dave always solved my dilemma. He never made me feel foolish or incompetent. Later it was Dave who talked me through the installation of my first modem. There were other days with Dave and Barbara, but he was my life-saver in those early daunting days of PCs and cyberspace. Thanks Dave.
