“ One Halloween, there was a trick or treater on the porch. She had a stocking over her head and flowers on top. Her head was sticking out from the middle of a cardboard box which had been decorated like a table. Her head was the centerpiece. She spoke with a lisping, high pitched voice. I recognized her and started laughing hysterically. My mother was soooo mad at me because she thought I was laughing at a special needs person. Rest in peace Auntie Jeanette.

She was supposed to be a hunk of baloney! And if I remember correctly, it was the day after Halloween, which made it even funnier. Claire Doucette Mehan.

“ Mom was a spitfire/firecracker! Loved to shop and be out and about....nothing got past her....even in her elderly years, she was still quite witty!! She will be SO very missed by us all....❤️
