Anything I say will not meet the magnitude of what you are experiencing right now. Yet, I want you to know that my hope for you is that you allow time to heal, as best it can, the profound loss you have experienced. And along the way, choose love and connection over despair and separation. You will always have that choice. Choosing to express just a little more love in the world...what a wonderful testament to little Jeffrey's life. This is what I will be making an effort to do in Jeffrey's memory...in leu of flowers...to celebrate Jeffrey's six perfect years on the planet.

Dear Corrine and Scott,

We want to extend our thoughts of love and condolences to you and each member of the Bourgeois family on the loss of Jeffrey, who was far more than a son, brother, grandchild, nephew, cousin and a good friend to many during his life.

Our daily lives are often challenging under the best of circumstances, and other times we are faced with an unexpected challenge that tests us beyond what we thought was possible.

We want to share the following thought that may serve you and your family at this time in your lives, and in the future:

*Rather than mourn the absence of the flame,
let us celebrate how brightly it burned.*

Let's comfort one another with favorite memories of sharing times when we were all together.

*Let's celebrate the spirit of one very special life,
So in our hearts the flame will burn forever.*

Thinking of you with love,

“ Dear Mr. and Mrs. Bourgeois,

I know I do not know you, but my heart goes out to you over the loss of your beautiful son Jeffrey.

I am praying for all of you to be able to find the strength to deal with your loss and to find comfort in each other and staying strong as a family.

From all I have read, it appears that you are a close nit and loving family. This is an unimaginable situation to deal with and the loss of your son will be felt forever but, after learning that Mr. Bourgeois took his children to work with him, reminded me of my own family and when we were younger and also self employed, my husband would take our boys with him on jobs. My sons are grown now and my husband has past away. My sons often speak of times when they went on jobs with their dad and how much they enjoyed spending that time with him. With Jeffrey helping as he did, I am sure he too was enjoying his time with his dad, something worth more then all the money or possessions in the world. As horrific as the accident and situation was and is, you were all together and doing something that Jeffrey enjoyed; you cant fault yourselves for that, ever.

God bless you all and know that so many people are praying for you and grieving with you in your loss. This was a horrific accident and no fault of anyone. Love each other and hold on to the beautiful memories of Jeffery and use those memories to be even closer as a family.

*Sincerely,
Rose*

“ JUST FOR TODAY FOR BEREAVED PARENTS

by Vicki Tushingham

Just for today I will try to live through the next 24 hours and not expect to get over my child's death, but instead learn to live with it, just one day at a time.

*Just for today I will remember my child's life, not just her death,
and bask in the comfort of all those treasured days
and moments we shared.*

*Just for today I will forgive all the family and friends who didn't help or comfort me the way I needed them to.
They truly did not know how.*

*Just for today I will smile no matter how much I hurt on the inside, for maybe if I smile a little,
my heart will soften and I will begin to heal.*

Just for today I will reach out to comfort a relative or friend of my child,

*for they are hurting too,
and perhaps we can help each other.*

*Just for today I will free myself from my self-inflicted burden of guilt, for deep in my heart I know if there was anything in this world
I could of done to save my child from death,
I would of done it.*

*Just for today I will honor my child's memory
by doing something with another child
because I know that would make my own child proud.*

*Just for today I will offer my hand in friendship
to another bereaved parent
for I do know how they feel.*

*Just for today when my heart feels like breaking,
I will stop and remember that grief is the price we pay for loving and the only reason I hurt is because*

I had the privilege of loving so much

Just for today I will not compare myself with others.

I am fortunate to be who I am and have had my child for as long as I did.

Just for today I will allow myself to be happy,

*for I know that I am not deserting her by living on.
Just for today I will accept that I did not die when my child did,
my life did go on,
and I am the only one who can make that life worthwhile once more.*

Then the child opened its eyes, and looked up into the angel's beautiful face, which beamed with happiness, and at the same moment they were in heaven, where joy and bliss reigned. The child received wings like the other angel, and they flew about together, hand in hand.

Words cannot describe how my heart just aches for your family. I have been crying since I heard and just pray that you can find some kind of comfort. I have wanted to stop by, but am respecting your privacy. I just keep seeing Jeffrey's face how he used to smile at me and Trayton when Trayton got off the bus or when I used to go to school and tray would always be sitting next to Jeffrey at lunch. He was truly a precious boy. I am here for any support you need, a dinner, a shoulder, a listening ear. I pray every night for your family and just like I told Trayton he is in heaven on Jesus lap. Jesus is holding him and telling him he loves him until you can see him again. My family has gone through this type of pain and I pray for your comfort knowing he truly is an angel.*

“ i didnt have the pleasure of meeting Jeffrey but i still feel it. Im sure i dont have the right words and i hope this poem can comfort you.

*We are connected,
My child and I, by
An invisible cord
Not seen by the eye.*

*It's not like the cord
That connects us 'til birth
This cord can't been seen
By any on Earth.*

*This cord does it's work
Right from the start.
It binds us together
Attached to my heart.*

*I know that it's there
Though no one can see
The invisible cord
From my child to me.*

*The strength of this cord
Is hard to describe.
It can't be destroyed
It can't be denied.*

*It's stronger than any cord
Man could create
It withstands the test
Can hold any weight.*

*And though you are gone,
Though you're not here with me,
The cord is still there*

But no one can see.

*It pulls at my heart
I am bruised...I am sore,
But this cord is my lifeline
As never before.*

*I am thankful that God
Connects us this way
A mother and child
Death can't take it away*

“ My thoughts are with your family during this time. I wish I had the words to help and comfort.

Jeffrey was such a sweet boy with a huge smile that lit up the world. I loved seeing his smiling face looking out the school bus window as it passed our home each morning. I will remember him wearing his dirtbike outfit to school with that huge twinkling smile. The way that he followed Zach on the soccer field and playground. The love in his eyes for his big brother. I have so many wonderful memories of Jeff in the year and a half that I knew him. He was kind to my daughter and to everyone he met. I will miss him, and I will treasure the memories that I have. When Kayleigh looks back at her kindergarten class picture, we will always have a warm, wonderful thought to say about Jeffrey. I will keep him and your family in my thoughts.

“ Dear Bourgeois Family,

In these darkest moments, I hope you can draw some strength in knowing that there are people like myself, people you do not know, who are thinking of you and praying for you. I can't imagine the grief you must be feeling, and there are probably no words I can offer which will make you feel any better. Why do things like this happen? I ask myself that all the time. I'm not religious, but I believe that we will all reunite with the ones we love at some point. Until then, I hope that you are comforted by knowing that your son is looking down on you. I hope you do not blame yourselves or each other. Things happen in life. Sometimes it is terrible things that happen. As parents we do our best to keep our children safe. Sometimes, we make mistakes and at times, those mistakes have terrible consequences. It doesn't mean that we are bad people or that we didn't love our kids, only that we are human. You have 2 beautiful children that are still with you that need your love and support. I hope and pray that you find the strength to continue to be the parents that they need so much. I wish you all the best. You'll be in my thoughts.

“ To the Bourgeois family: I do not know you, but I read about the tragic loss of your son. What a beautiful little boy who will live on in your hearts and memories. I am sorry for your loss of Jeffrey, and my heart and prayers go out to you. Both of my daughters have each lost a child at a very young age so that is why your loss touched me deeply. Faith, love, and the support of your family and friends will help you get through this. God Bless.

“ This has profoundly affected me. I cannot stop thinking about this boy. I don't understand it. I never met him, or the family, yet I know him, something in my soul has awakened with his story, and right now I don't know if it's for the better or worse because I'm so upset and hurt over this. I wish I could take his place. I lost my daughter 2 years ago. I don't know why these things happen in this world, it seems so cruel and unfair. I get angry at God, angry at myself, angry at the whole damn world. This little boy will always be a part of me, I will not forget him, ever. Bless you Jeffrey, as you run free in the playground of Heaven.
