“ Dear Bob,

My memory of your mother goes back to a time over fifty years ago when we were both in ninth grade, shared the same friends, teachers, and so forth. Leona was then a young, attractive woman who labored daily at her job, but always managed to leave a fresh, home-baked pie for her only son to enjoy when he returned from school each day. As a mother and grandmother myself, I now know how really kind, generous, and loving she was...to you, to me, and to all your NHJHS buddies. Those were great days, and your mother was a wonderful person. I remember her with affection.
