“ Yimi

I miss you so much. Not a moment goes by that I do not think of you or find myself looking for you. But you have gone away for now. The memories are many and help ease the pain for us all. Simple, ordinary routines like making dinner, going for walks, watching Everybody Loves Raymond....to going on trips and eating out. You had such a love for life, laughter and appreciation for all kinds of music. You taught us so many things...love for animals, to help those in need, strength in the midst of troubles, respect for people, and a true faith in God to resolve all things. The depth of your love for your children lives on. Rest in peace, sweet Yimi, you are with God and with all those you loved who went on before you. Thank you for your love. You promised to be with us always and I believe that. You live in my heart until we are all together again.

“ My Gorgeous, Magnificent, Precious Momma,

My heart is broken and this is truly my darkest hour. I feel so privileged to call you mother. Thank you for the countless lessons that you taught me, for all of the unconditional love and nurturing that you bestowed upon me. You will forever be the deepest, most significant love of my life. You will forever be the center of my universe, my brightest shining star. I honor your request to carry on in your name. I can never say goodbye to you; instead let's just say until we meet again in another place and time where separations like this do not exist.

I love you with my whole heart, soul and all of my being; it's true love, which unlike the body, never dies.

*Your adoring daughter,
Mary*
