“ Several weeks ago, Ralph and I were sitting at dinner table at Middlewoods, our home. The server was taking longer than expected to deliver our desserts.

"I asked for German Chocolate cake," Ralph said, "but I didn't think she'd go to Germany to get it."

Whenever Ralph talked with someone, or whatever aspect of his one hundred two years he was discussing, he expressed exuberance and love for life and those with whom he shared his. We will miss him.
