“ For many years we watched you work with your Dad, being neighbors, you saw our kids grow up, times that ended when the State took over your work place and my Mom's home. Many memories are left and never forgotten.
Roger Sr., so sorry for your loss,
Ines Linares and Family.

“ We are happy to be able to share a few of our fondest memories of Roger. The few that stick with us the most are the ones where he made us laugh at the stupidest little things. Roger was almost like a brother to the both of us and also made a positive influence on some other people that were around him day-in/day-out. Roger is going to be missed by both myself and my fiance' Anju, but having that I have known him longer I will miss him most. We will never forget you Roger.

“ Word's cannot express how we feel at this time except for the fact that we have lost a piece of ourselves. Fortunately I will be able to see the man that I truly loved with all my heart thru my daughter's eye's and smile. We thank god for the time we were able to spend with Roger. Even though we were divorced and had some issues we always loved each other and at anytime I needed him he was there for me and for that I thank you MY ROGER. I will always love you and will one day see you again. Miranda sends her love to her father and wants him to know that throughout life she will make him very proud.

The following is from Romeo and Juliet:

Take him and cut him into little stars and he will make the face of the heavens so fine that no one will pay worship to the garish sun.

We love you Daddy!

“ I am deeply saddened by this sudden loss. Roger has a very special place in my heart and is remembered as the kind, sensitive, loving, person he always was to me. Today's rain is "Tears from Heaven" a song written by Eric Clapton as he experienced his own son's tragic death. I know my words that can not ease your pain, only time can do that.

“ Our family got to know Roger Jr. in the 1980's We lived across the street from the family. He adopted my sons as his little brothers, Shane Blier and Chris Fahey. I remember the way he taught Shane how to fix things. To this day we speak of Roger and how he made our lives a happier place. We will miss our dear friend, Little Roger.
